A Community Hand-Shake

When Rev. Father Frank Lawler, national chaplain of the American Legion, returns to Jacksonville tomorrow, he will be accorded a royal reception by Legionnaires and townspeople. A parade, homecoming banquet and speeches are on the program.

Sharing honors with the national chaplain will be Daniel J. Doherty of Woburn, Mass., national commander of the Legion. Both men were elected at the New York City convention recently.

Jacksonville will welcome Rev. Father Lawler not only as a national officer of America's greatest patriotic organization, but as a personal friend, one who spent several years in our midst. He is held in highest esteem, so that his return is heralded with the same pleasure that word of his election to the high office brought to this community.

Jacksonville will receive with honor Commander Doherty, chief of staff of the ex-service men, who will lead the Legionnaires during the coming year. While this is Commander Doherty's first visit to Central Illinois, he will be extended a hearty welcome, and made to feel at home in Jacksonville.

Members of Jacksonville Post 279 feel highly honored in anticipating the presence of two national officers of their organization. Townspeople, represented by an advisory committee to arrange for the celebration, recognize the importance of the occasion. The entire community is happy to greet two men who lead the Legionnaires in their program of patriotism and peace.

Five hundred or more persons will attend the banquet Saturday evening at the parochial school auditorium. Thousands are expected to witness the public parade for the distinguished visitors.

It will be impossible for all friends and admirers of the national commander and national chaplain to shake hands with them, and greet them personally. But the parade, banquet and program have been planned as a community welcome, a

Hoboes Hard To Count

Jobless persons who have a permanent address will not be difficult to count in the forthcoming census of the unemployed. But the fellows on the road, both professional and amateur hoboes, will be rather hard to round up. The chances are that many of them will never be included in the census.

November 16, the first day of the census, will find the same number of floaters in "jungles" along the railroad tracks, as were there the day before. Each railroad freight train will carry its customary quota of transients. The moochers who work the streets and backroads for cash and handouts of food cannot be depended upon to remain stationary while noses are counted.

The government has made plans for counting these roamers if possible. Questionnaire cards will be delivered to every known inhabitant of bum camps, flop-houses and railroad yards. But the fact that there is nothing compulsory about filling out the cards means that many wanderers will take the procedure lightly.

The man on the road, whether of his own choosing or because of necessity, doesn't care much whether he is counted or left out. He is just an individual, and he figures that one individual doesn't make much difference in the modern scheme of things.

Uncle Sam will do his best to obtain an accurate check on how many persons are unemployed and want work. But the hobo section of the population will undoubtedly be represented only in part.

Tom, Huck And Becky

Tom Sawyer, Huck Finn and Becky Thatcher seem to be as popular with young people of this generation as when they first were introduced by Mark Twain. It is interesting to note that these beloved characters of fiction will once more climb the hills around Hannibal, roam through the cave and eat in the low-ceiling home where their creator lived.

Many Jacksonville residents have visited Hannibal and gone Mark Twain. The cave where some of the episodes of his famous story are laid, his old home and monument at River View park, have been inspected with interest by hundreds of thousands.

As part of the celebration of the 102nd anniversary of Twain's birth, three young movie stars now filming "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer" will go to Hannibal Nov. 30 to take part in the program.

Hannibal's Mark Twain commission has announced that Tommy Kelly, who has the leading role of Tom Sawyer, Jackie Moran, who plays Huck Finn, and Ann Gillis, the Becky Thatcher of the picture, will participate in the anniversary observance.

A luncheon at noon in the boyhood home of Mark Twain, dedication of a museum next door, and a dinner at the Mark Twain hotel in the evening, will be highlights of the program.

Charles Tressler Lark, New York attorney and trustee of the Mark Twain estate, will speak on "My Client, Mark Twain." Other notables who have accepted invitations are Governor Lloyd Stark of Missouri, whose home is at Louisiana, not far from Hannibal; State Senator Allen McReynolds of Carthage, president of the Missouri Historical society, and Floyd C. Shoemaker of Columbia, secretary of the society.

State Legion Chief Will Be on Program Planned for Lawler

Leonard Applequist, Aurora, Has Been Prominent in Affairs of Legion

Leonard Applequist, State Commander of the American Legion, of Aurora, will be on the program to be held here Saturday night honoring Father Frank Lawler, who was elected National chaplain of the Legion at its national convention in New York City. Committees in charge of the event announced Thursday that 300 reservations have been made for the banquet, at which the national commander will appear, and that requests have been received for over 100 additional reservations.

Applequist has been connected with the affairs of the Legion since he was discharged from the army at Camp Grant in March of 1919. He entered the service as a private in Co. B, 6th Engineers, in 1917, and went overseas with the same organization in December of that year. He achieved the rank of corporal while in France and was wounded in the defense of the Somme, in April, 1918.

He was a member of the membership committee of the Aurora post during its organization period, became a member of the entertainment committee the following year, and in 1921 was elected commander of the Aurora-Roosevelt post. He was elected to the executive committee of the Kane county council the following year, served as chairman of several post committees throughout the following years, and then went into the work of the state organization. He was elected Grand Chief of the 40th and 8th of Illinois last year, and commander of the state organization this year.

Hundreds Parade Here Thursday To Celebrate Armistice Anniversary

Jacksonville yesterday recalled the joy of 19 years ago when the Armistice was signed bringing to an end the World War, with a monster parade, the marchers including veterans of that war, of former wars, their auxiliary organizations, and youngsters too young to recall the feeling of relief that flashed around the world at 11 a. m. that brilliant fall morning.

Crowds lined the streets, spectators of a parade in which practically every man, woman and child in the city took part in 19 years ago. They bared their heads when whistles announced the moment of silent prayer, and again when the colors borne by the various marching organizations rippled past. That same feeling of relief still existed in the hearts of many of them.

Following a morning during which speakers appeared in each of the schools to tell something about the day and its symbolism, the parade formed at the corner of Church and West State street, where David Hauck, son of Louis Hauck, and a member of the Junior Legion Drum and Bugle corps sounded taps.

Preceded by a car containing officers of the State Highway Patrol, the colors, borne by members of the Legion post led by hundreds of marchers through the business district, closed for the day in memory of the event, around the square and back to the American Legion home on West College avenue where the parade disbanded.

There were representatives of the Grand Army of the Republic, the boys who fought in the Civil War and their auxiliary organization, the Woman's Relief Corps, the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Daughters of 1812, among the older of the patriotic organizations. There were also the Spanish-American War Veterans, with their auxiliary, the Spanish War veterans marching while the auxiliary rode in a decorated automobile.

Then the World War Mothers, the Jacksonville State Hospital band, the Disabled Veterans of the World War and the American Legion, marching with much the same swing that marked their triumphant entry into the conflict across the ocean. The Veterans of Foreign Wars also had a delegation marching.

The Jacksonville post Junior Legion Drum and Bugle corps, decked out in new uniforms, gave several snappy selections. The American Legion Auxiliary marched as a unit.

The Northminster File and Drum Corps, the Boy Scouts and the Illinois School for the Deaf band swung along the line of march, while Illinois College was represented by two students on horseback, and a decorated automobile.

The Red Cross, which opened its annual roll call for members yesterday, also had a float in the parade, with students from Routt and Jacksonville High schools, numbering over a thousand, bringing up the rear. The J.H.S. band headed this section. Students from the David Prince junior high school also marched, bearing their section numbers.

The big feature of the day to the members of the Legion was the hot dog and a coffee hut the Salvation Army set up at the American Legion home. There the Army, much as it did in the World War days, served the soldiers with refreshments.

There was no speaking program at the Legion home, but representatives of the Legion appeared in all of the

Wood Block Display At Local Art Home Among Outstanding

Gustave Baumann's Work Will Be Shown Here; Pictures of Rocks Coming

The Jacksonville Art association is planning for an unusually large number of students and art lovers to visit the Strawn gallery during the display of pre-historic rock pictures, Baumann prints and Indian pottery which will be on exhibit beginning today through the 21st.

The prehistoric rock pictures including 39 water facsimiles, and 7 photographs, illustrating prehistoric cultures, will be on display.

The Baumann prints, 20 woodblocks in color of western subjects is an outstanding collection. Gustave Baumann strives for a completeness of realistic color effect, without losing sight of the woodblock.

Baumann, who recently has been residing in Chicago, has found that the landscape of America is just as well adapted to color print as that of Europe and the proof of the fact that the man is an artist, is that he can find beauty and subjects around him, and make something out of what he finds. He now has a studio in California.

Gustave Baumann was born in Magdeburg, Germany, in 1881. He became a pupil of Dasio in Munich. Later in 1915 he was awarded a gold medal for wood block printing at the Exposition. He came to Brown county, Indiana, to find seclusion and rest. While there he found the inspiration that developed his artistic instinct and changed his life from commercial work to that of the leading woodblock print artist of America. He discovered an old Washington hand press, and with the press and the woodblocks he cut, he acted as his own printer and produced some of the most charming results, which portrayed the vivid coloring of the country, and quaint street scenes of

Committees Prepare Local Citizens for Unemployed Census

City's Jobless to Be Counted in General Registration by U.S. Government

Preparations are going forward to acquaint the unemployed of this city with the census to be taken this month by the U. S. government. The work of registration for various groups will have special handling on the part of the agencies having supervision.

Special arrangements are being made to register the men in the local CCC camp; and also those working on WPA projects. Anyone without a job or not having as much work as is useful is eligible to register. Those having full time employment need not pay any attention to the census.

Good work is being done by members of the various committees. Chairman Joe Brooks said Thursday, Rev. H. A. Lofthian and J. C. Colton are working on the job of placing speakers in all the churches, schools, clubs, etc. A full list of speakers is being compiled and will be published later. The various organizations are being asked to notify their members, so that the unemployed among them may be properly registered.

William Casler is spreading the information among the veterans. G. C. Ratcliff is seeing that all labor organizations get the word to their members, who will have instructions as to what to do when the registration blanks are received. J. H. Dial and George Lukeman, Jr., are working on general publicity.

Misses Mary Postelwait and Elizabeth Newman are contacting women's organizations. Misses Celia Evinger and Gertrude Hamilton are spreading the information among welfare groups. J. C. Mutch has charge of arrangements to get the information to parents thru the schools. All of which is leading up to the moment when registration cards will be left at every home in the city by postal service. It is hoped by that time the unemployed of Jacksonville will know what to do with the cards. The date is Nov. 16.

The executive board of the Arenzville Woman's club met at the home of Mrs. H. C. Johnson Monday evening, Nov. 10. The resignation of Mrs. C. H. Nickel as president of the club was read and accepted. Mrs. J. H. Newton was elected president, Mrs. H. C. Johnson, first vice president, and Mrs. John Zulauf, second vice president.
Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Huston and family entertained at dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Huston and daughter, Lucille, and sons, Donald, Robbie, Marcus Lee, of Beardstown, Mrs. O. G. Jennings of Mt. Sterling, Mrs. E. H. Dennison and sons, Larry and Randall, of Kirkswood, Mo., and Mr. and Mrs. Willie Huston and daughter, Margaret, and sons, Glen, Ray and William, of Arenzville.

The thieves gained entrance through a south window of the warehouse and went to the main door of the place that opens onto State street. The double doors were opened and the truck used in the robbery was driven into the warehouse, doors closed and the seed loaded.

The clover seed was removed from two piles of sacks some distance apart in the warehouse. Six sacks of clover seed that had been piled with a number of sacks of timothy seed and a number of sacks from another pile of clover seed toward the eastern end of the place were taken.

F. R. Miller discovered the robbery Wednesday morning and notified Sheriff Floyd Darr and Chief of Police Ray Shortal. An inspection of the windows through which admission was gained by the party opening the doors revealed splendid chances to obtain finger prints. Sheriff Floyd Darr sent for a fingerprint expert and the marks left by the first intruder were obtained.

Seed houses in St. Louis, East St. Louis, and other cities were notified by telephone and a radio broadcast of the robbery was sent out throughout the St. Louis district.

A band of thieves has worked intermittently in the Jersey, Greene, Morgan, Pike, and Calhoun county district for more than one year.

Wilson, east of Glasgow, narrowly escaped destruction late Sunday afternoon by fire, when the couple discovered the ceiling of the basement to be afire. CHANDLERVILLE WILL MAKE LIBRARY DRIVE

Chandlerville—The Chandlerville Public library organized under county administration early this spring with Mrs. Frank Zellar as librarian and with books issued from the Illinois State library in Springfield, is now hoped to be made a permanent institution in Chandlerville. With this in view, Mrs. Zellar, librarian, is organizing an advisory board to assist in this plan. Although reading room and shelves are provided in the town hall, no county funds are available for librarian services and other winter expenses. Members of the library board, Mrs. Charles Amant and Evan Garner will meet with Mrs. Zellar in an effort to hold the library in this village. The books and magazines have been found to meet an increasing circle of readers during its introductory months of service. New Wool Sweaters, $1.00. EMPORIUM.

DYER-BENNET SEES FOLKSONGS AS MEANS TO PROMOTE PEACE
One of Richard Dyer-Bennet's beliefs is that folksongs are a living art and that they deserve an important place on the modern concert stage. His program will be varied and unique, accompanying himself on the twelve stringed lute at his concert to be given on November 16th at the Congregational church.
His repertoire includes many languages and dialects, and in each his diction and musicianship indicates a maturity and understanding beyond the years of the performer. Of his trip to the folk song festival in Wales, England and Sweden.
Dyer-Bennet has devoted the last year developing a plan for an international Folk Theatre Movement. Working with him are many noted men, Sir Gilbert Murray, and the young film producer, Robert Flaherty, Robeson and others. A league of nations committee is considering the preliminary draft of the organization, because of its value of promoting peace. He has won wide acclaim in Wales, England and Sweden.

Eminent Physicist
Will Give Lecture
At College Tonight

Dr. Arthur Compton's Life Is Interesting; Began His Work When Ten

Dr. Arthur H. Compton, world famous experimenter in Physics and one of the three Americans to win the Nobel Prize in Physics will deliver a lecture at Music Hall, MacMurray college this evening at 8:15. His subject will be "Can Science Point the Way?" This lecture will be of a non-technical nature. Dr. Compton will describe some of the recent developments in science in the language of the layman, and will discuss some of the more practical limitations to the use of these developments of science.

Dr. Compton was born in the college town of Wooster, Ohio. As a boy he was very much interested in working with tools and instruments. At the age of ten he wrote a paper upon his theory of the origin of the difference between the three-toes and the five-toed elephants. When he was 15 he built and flew a glider, and in the next several years he had several scientific papers published on airplane construction and theories. When he was seventeen he was given a small but good telescope with the aid of which he constructed an astronomical clock from an ordinary clock, attached a small camera and took pictures of the stars and the planets.

While Dr. Compton was still in high school he became so well informed in astronomy that he was appointed by Dr. B. S. Yenney, Wooster College Professor of Astronomy, to demonstrate the college telescope and give lectures to juniors and seniors in the college. While he was still in college he invented and patented a gyroscopic device for the control of the plane equilibrium, similar to the one now used on the planes of Glenn Curtiss. During his last two years at Wooster College he took practically all of the courses offered in philosophy which was taught by his father Elias Compton, dean of the college, and was awarded a prize in philosophy. In college he was an outstanding athlete in basketball, track, baseball and football.

Speaker Here Today

DR. ARTHUR H. COMPTON

Dr. Compton intended to become a mechanical engineer, and he entered Princeton Graduate College and received his M.A. degree in 1914. There he definitely turned to the study of physics and took his Ph. D. degree at Princeton in 1916. He then taught one year at the University of Minnesota, worked two years developing electric bulbs for the Westinghouse Electric Company; developed airplane instruments for the Signal Corps during the war; and studied at Cambridge University in England for two years. He then became head of the Department of Physics at Washington University, and in 1923 was made the Charles H. Swift Distinguished Professor of Physics at the University of Chicago.

Dr. Compton is probably the foremost experimentalist in his field, the analysis of radiant energy from matter. In 1927 he was declared co-winner of the Nobel Prize in physics for the year, primarily on the basis of his discovery of the "Compton Effect," which proved that radiant energy is itself a form of matter. He also has been awarded the Rumford Gold Medal by the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and the Gold Medal of the Radiological Society of North America.

Crimsons Have Trouble With Red-Heads In Opening Half, But Seconds Get Touchdowns

Feltahans 20 to 0 victory over Jacksonville Thursday in Springfield virtually assured Jacksonville high school a Central conference championship regardless of the outcome of the game with Lanphier of Springfield here Saturday. If Jacksonville wins, it will finish an undefeated season, and if Lanphier wins, the Crimsons can claim the title on a percentage basis.

Virginia—Jacksonville high school's Crimsons had trouble with Virginia throughout the first quarter of the annual football game here Thursday, but the Crimsons got going in the second quarter, shoved over one touchdown in the first half, pushed over another a few minutes after the second half, and then watched the second stringers push over two more before the game was over to claim a 27 to 0 victory, their first on the Virginia field in many years, and continue on their way to an unbeaten season.

Defensively, the Crimsons were powerful, holding Virginia to two first downs, but offensively the visitors couldn't get going until the second period. A determined Virginia defense stopped the Crimsons from scoring during the first period, but it couldn't withstand the J. H. S. attack in the second period.

John Newberry rolled over the goal line with the first touchdown as the result of a 35 yard pass from Bob Hinkle, Newberry catching the pass for a 20 yard gain and then outfooting his Virginia pursuers to the goal line. Convinced that they had to work for their touchdowns, the Crimsons opened up with more power in the second half and broke a 40 yard hole for Harvey Scott, who galloped over the goal line for the second marker after about four plays.

The third touchdown came in the same period when Virginia fumbled deep in their own territory. Bob Hinkle driving over from the three yard line. Reserves streamed onto the field from the Jacksonville bench, and they put up more fight and scrap than did the regulars.

The reserve team line-up consisted of Sorrells and Coults, ends, Caldwell and Summers, tackles, Jackson and Woods, guards, Loomis, center, Sevier, quarterback, Brubaker, Johnson and Elliott, halfbacks, and Smith, fullback.

They pushed Virginia back steadily and in the fourth period their efforts were rewarded. The seconds tossed Virginia back steadily on attempted passes, and then on the fourth down Caldwell recovered a fumble and Elliott went two yards through the line for a touchdown, later adding the point.

The Crimsons varsity, which meets Lanphier at the Jacksonville High field Saturday in the final home game of the year, come through the game without a single injury, and apparently without extending themselves.

Millikin Yearlings To Test I.C. Frosh Friday Afternoon

Game Will Be Prelude to Annual I.C.-Millikin Game at Decatur

Illinois College's freshmen, reduced to a starting squad and a couple of reserves, hope to bring something out of their two game season this afternoon when they meet James Millikin's yearlings on the Illinois College field at 2 p. m. The Blueboys yearlings held a mighty Wesleyan freshman team to two touchdowns in their first game, but they dropped the decision.

The game, a prelude to the battle which the Blueboys will put up at Decatur on the following day in the quest of a Little 10 championship and one of the few victories the Blueboys have achieved over the Big Blue, will be played before a home crowd consisting of students and townspeople who are curious to know just what the freshmen will have to offer to fill the places to be left by eight seniors on the varsity squad.

Coach Ray Smith has nominated a probable starting line-up, consisting of Yates, a former Johnston City and Washington University, St. Louis, end and Frank Shervis, a former Chicago high school end; Peserick and Kostanski, tackles; Edoffs and Thompson, guards; either Benedict or Ursic, center, as linemen.

"Jumping Jack" Alred, who flashed around the Roodhouse field for a couple years, will be at quarterback, either Dick Benson or Charles Davis, J.H.S. backs, at one halfback, and Dick Shervis, a Chicago boy, at the other halfback, and Frank Donat, of Johnston City and a brother of Co-Capt. Tony Donat, at fullback.

Robertson and Johnson, linemen, are about the only available substitutes, although Parsons, a quarterback, and Kusenda, a fullback, may get some action.

Greenfield Beats Carrollton, 7 to 0					HEALEYS MAY PRACTICE
Capt. Haven Scores in Second Quarter for Victory Over Old Rivals					Chicago, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Divine healers have a right to practice in the state, the Illinois Appellate Court ruled in reversing a decision of the Cook county court in which Mrs. Valeria Klingner was convicted on charges of violating the state's medical practice act.
Greenfield, Nov. 11.—Capt. L. Haven led his Greenfield team to a 7 to 0 victory over Carrollton here Wednesday night with a second quarter touchdown.					She contended she was a member of the First Spiritualist church of Cicero and a duly qualified and licensed healer for that church.
Evenly matched, the lineups battled for the most part in the center of the field. Carrollton got within 5 yards of the pay-off station on one occasion, but lost the ball on downs.					Charles Finley of Greenfield called here yesterday.
Haven sneaked over the goal in the second quarter after Greenfield made a sustained march. Green scored the extra point by snugging a pass.

Watch Out for the Bikes, Fred

Our Correspondent Jumps Over to Holland and Almost Gets Run Down—Tells About Increasing Size of Holland by Dredging—They Paint Everything

By FRED J. PANWITT
Amsterdam, Oct. 29.—In England it was left-handed traffic. In Holland it is bicycle traffic. Two-wheeled maniacs come shooting at you from all sides whenever you cross a street, and there is far more danger of being run down by a bicycle than by an automobile.

Everyone rides a bicycle here. From grandpa down to the baby, the whole family gets about with amazing speed in the congested traffic. Baby rides in a rumble seat over the rear wheel or on the horizontal bar, until he is old enough to have a bike of his own.

It is not so much pleasure as business which accounts for the number of bicycles. In a country where transportation is rather expensive (in line with everything else) the bike is used to carry its owner from home to work or from city to city. Along the main highways between cities there are special lanes for bicycles, and the lanes are in constant use. Many merchants use bicycles for delivery purposes. Some are built with a small wheel in front to accommodate a huge basket. Others have a small truck bed in front, supported by two wheels, and propelled by a single, foot-driven wheel behind. I saw several of these in England, but here they are everywhere.

Trying to gauge the amount of bike traffic, I stood one morning in the middle of a block in Amsterdam and counted the number passing a given point. It was a slack hour, and not a particularly busy section of the city, but no fewer than 100 bicycles and three motorcycles passed in two minutes! Fortunately cyclists obey the traffic laws, stopping for red lights and holding out their arms to indicate turns, but trying to dodge across a street is like trying to run between railroad tracks.

Probably the second most popular means of transportation is by water. Canals or "grachten" furnish a passageway for water taxis, sight-seeing boats, and innumerable barges. Many of the buildings have these canals washing their walls, and goods can be delivered to stores by boat.

In the country one sees very few wagons. Canals cut across the fields and turn them into countless islands, so that the farmers harvest their crops and move them by boats which they propel with long poles. The system of canals is so complicated in western Holland, where almost all of the land is below sea level, that it is not unusual to see canals crossing their way along on different levels. Supported by earth walls like a road-way, the water level of the canal may be several feet above the land around it. Some of the canals are large enough to accommodate ships of a good size. At first it seems a little queer to see a seventy-five or hundred-foot boat sailing right out across the fields.

Water is the greatest friend of the Dutch, but it is also their worst enemy. It is a constant fight to keep the North Sea and the Zuider Zee from flooding over the lowlands. Thousands of acres are under cultivation simply because the Dutch have refused to be beaten by a few million tons of water.

The latest project, already well under way, is to reduce the Zuider Zee to a lake about one-fourth its present size. Dikes are being built and soil dredged from the sea to fill in behind the dikes. When the project is complete, Holland will have grown several hundred square miles in area. One of the first steps in the subjugation of the Zuider Zee—which has already been renamed the IJssel Meer or Lake—was to build a dike all the way across the opening at the north. Complete with sluices and locks, it provides an effective control over the inland sea. An auto road has been built along the dike, and from Alkmaar, just north of Amsterdam, one can go as I did the other day by autobus from one side of the sea to the other. For nearly twenty miles the road stretches its way in a straight line with open sea on either side. In the middle, and is barely visible ahead and behind—only the dike and the road and the sea. It is estimated that fifteen years or more will be required to reclaim the land from the sea, but there is no great rush to get the job done, and in the meantime thousands of fishermen on the shores of the sea can continue to catch their livelihood in places which will one day be part of the mainland.

Maybe the constant contact with water has made Hollanders conscious of cleanliness. Something has done it, for Holland is the cleanest country one could hope to find. In The Hague, falling leaves were the only signs of litter, and houses looked clean and modern. Color was everywhere. Brilliant reds, blues and yellows were used on window shades and shutters, but instead of giving a "flashy" look, they added more charm to buildings which were already charming.

In Rotterdam, I could hardly believe my eyes when I saw coal barges which were absolutely spotless and painted in bright colors. A fish warehouse at Scheveningen looked perfectly clean, even though the odor could not be eliminated.

The language problem in Holland is not so difficult for the stranger as it is for the Hollander himself. At the hotels, restaurants and railway stations almost everyone speaks passable English. The educated Hollander, through necessity, speaks four languages—Dutch, German, French and English. The country is so small, and foreign visitors are so numerous, that all four languages are used in most sections of the country.

Even in the more remote parts, there are usually a few persons who speak English. One man, riding with me in a third-class compartment en route to Amsterdam from a small town east of the Zuider Zee, proved it by repeating over and over the one phrase of English he knew. It happened to be "Hello Charlie!"

Ebenezer Society Members Husk Corn

Eleven members of the Ebenezer Ladies' Aid society husked a load of corn Wednesday afternoon on the A. C. Reid farm and the proceeds from the grain were placed in the society treasury. Mr. Reid donated the corn to the society, and after husking for one hour and twenty-five minutes their work had netted 46 bushels and 30 pounds.

The following members of the society husked the corn: Mrs. Henry Werries, Mrs. Arch Bridgman, Mrs. Fred Glinder, Mrs. Otis Mason, Mrs. Paul Jones, Mrs. Earl Bridgman, Mrs. Adolph Werries, Florence Ehrlich, Violet Pryor and Pearl and Ruby Devesse.

Cites Discrepancy In Slayer's Story
Glendale, Calif., Nov. 11.—(P)—Police Capt. Charles Blake asserted tonight there was a discrepancy in Paul A. Wright's account of the fatal shooting of his wife and John B. Kimmel.

Captain Blake said police investigation indicated Wright had fired while standing over the couple because bullets had penetrated at an angle of 60 degrees the piano bench on which Mrs. Wright and Kimmel were sitting.

Earlier, Chief of Police V. B. Browne had quoted Wright, as saying he shot wildly from a distance. In a white flash of jealousy when he found Mrs. Wright and Kimmel embracing in his home last Tuesday morning.

An inquest into the double killing will be held tomorrow.

Masonic Lodge Organization

There has long existed some evidence that Jacksonville had a Masonic lodge before the organization of Harmony Lodge No. 3 in 1837. Moses Atwood, an early merchant, wrote that in 1826 he assisted in a Masonic lodge which met at the north-west corner of the square in Jacksonville. William Sewall in his diary under date of June 15, 1830, mentions an interment "according to the notions of Masonry."

Recent Masonic publicity in Jacksonville newspapers uncovered the following letter owned by Miss Mabel L. Griswold of White Hall, Illinois, which she has presented Harmony Lodge:

Henry Griswold, Esq., Greene County, Illinois. Exeter, Ills. Jacksonville, 27th 1826 September. Dear Sir:

I wish to inform you that there will be a meeting of the Companions of Royal Arch Masons, at the town of Jacksonville on the first day of our circuit court, to be held in Morgan County, at which time and place you are respectfully invited to attend.

The object of the meeting is to petition the General Chapter to grant a dispensation for a Chapter to be opened at Jacksonville, choose officers, etc.

Mr. Henry Griswold. P. S. I wish to inform all others of this degree in your county and request them to attend. We depend much upon your assistance and surely expect you.

This letter proves that Aylesworth resided near Jacksonville in 1826. It may have been written from Exeter where a post office had been established February 27, 1826, or from Jacksonville whose post office dates from August 15, 1825.

Philip Aylesworth of Morgan County bought lots and land near Exeter along lower Maudslatter Creek of Enoch C. March on January 19, 1826. Exeter had shops and a mill before Jacksonville was laid out. George Hackett, a Mason, kept a store along the Maudslatter northwest of the site of Jacksonville before Jacksonville was founded. Early settlers loaded their cotton on flatboats near Hackett's store and poled the boats down the creek through Exeter to the Illinois River. When Jacksonville was laid out April 26, 1825, Hackett moved his store to the northwest corner of the square and in it Moses Atwood attended Masonic lodge.

Aylesworth removed to Meredosia soon after 1826. He is said to have been the first postmaster there when a postoffice was established January 19, 1832. In March, 1833, he and a man named Cobb plotted Aylesworth and Cobb's Addition to Meredosia. In 1836 Aylesworth was residing in Fulton County, Illinois, and was there as late as 1862. In 1836 he sold a Meredosia lot to George Hackett. In 1830 he sold lands to George Camp, a Mason. Henry Griswold and George Camp were natives of Vermont. Aylesworth may have been a Vermont. He left Morgan County before the organization of Harmony lodge in 1837, the organization of Benevolent Lodge at Meredosia in 1848, and the granting of dispensation for the organization of Jacksonville Chapter No. 3. R. A. M., on July 23, 1845.

In the proceedings of the old grand lodge of Illinois under date of January 3, 1826, appears, "A communication from Brother Philip Aylesworth, Worshipful Master, of Illion Lodge No. 12, with a copy of the proceedings of said lodge, and a return of dispensation."

The meager remaining records of the old grand lodge for 1834 list eleven lodges in Illinois under its jurisdiction but do not list Illion No. 12. The next reference to Illion Lodge No. 12 is that quoted under date of January 3, 1826. Three days later a committee reported that it found reports of Illion Lodge No. 12 and several other lodges satisfactory and on January 10, 1826, a committee reported to the grand lodge as follows: "The committee beg leave to report that the dispensation granted Illion Lodge No. 12 and Frontier Lodge No. 13, in the recess, have been returned together with their by-laws and copies of their proceedings under that dispensation; that they received their dispensations and acted under them for the first time on the 3rd of December, 1825," etc. On the same day a charter was granted Illion Lodge No. 12.

John C. Smith in his "History of Freemasonry in Illinois, four 1804-1829" lists among the lodges in Illinois in 1827 Illion No. 12, Carlyle, instituted 1825. John C. Reynolds, Deputy Grand Secretary, in his "History of Masonry in Illinois, 1805-1850" written in 1880 says under date of January 10, 1826, after listing the names and locations of lodges working under the jurisdiction of the grand lodge: "As to the location of Nos. 8, 10, 12 (Illion), and 14, we have no knowledge, and only know that such lodges did exist. We can obtain no information regarding them whatever."

One is curious to know upon what evidence Smith located Illion Lodge No. 12 at Carlyle. Nothing in the grand lodge records indicates its location at Carlyle or anywhere else. Perhaps, the location at Carlyle was one of those unexplained errors that just happen.

At the time his letter to Griswold was written, Aylesworth was master or past master of Illion Lodge No. 12 and was living in Morgan County about 140 miles from Carlyle. His attendance at meetings at Carlyle with drives over pioneer roads or no roads at all would have been entirely too much of a chore. He wanted Griswold's assistance in organizing a chapter. He would not have attempted to organize a chapter in a

Illinois Deficient In Health Service

Bulletin Says State Short on Public Health Nurses; Provides Figures

Illinois ranks eighth in the number of public health nurses employed per 100,000 population, according to a recent bulletin issued by the State Department of Health. This state has 14 public health nurses per 100,000.

Even according to this low rate, Jacksonville and Morgan county county should have about twice the number of nurses now in service. The bulletin tells the state story of deficiency as follows:

"Among the 9 states which in 1936 had each an estimated population in excess of 4 million, Illinois ranks next to the bottom in the proportionate number of public health nurses regularly employed. As of January 1, 1937, there were 1,142 such nurses at work in Illinois, or about 14 per 100,000 population. The number and rate in other states of the group were: Mass., 1,370-31; N. Y., 3,635-28; N. J., 1,070-25; Mich., 980-21; Calif., 1,088-18; Penn., 1,707-17; Ohio, 1,126-17; Ill., 1,142-14; Texas, 215-3. Only Texas among these states has fewer public health nurses per 100,000 of the population than Illinois.

"Properly trained nurses are as essential to the efficient functioning of a public health program and the effective utilization of preventing medicine as in an experienced engineer to the operation of a steam train. Without nurses the public health program simply doesn't go right. To measure up with Massachusetts, the number of public health nurses in Illinois would have to be practically doubled, increased from 1,126 to 2,200. The need in rural areas is particularly acute.

Woodrow Laughary Of Chapin Is Killed In Accident

Fire Damages Top Floor Of Gallaher Building Used as Odd Fellow Hall

Fire that broke out in a locker room at the Urania Odd Fellows lodge hall threatened destruction of the three story Gallaher block on West State street yesterday afternoon. The stubborn blaze, causing damage to the third floor of several hundred dollars, was brought under control after a sharp, smoky fight on the part of firemen.

Invisible from the large crowd that gathered in the street below, and to each other at times because of heavy billows of smoke, the firemen succeeded in checking the flames directly over the locker room.

Dr. McClelland Addresses D.A.R. Members at Meet

Discusses Life of Students in Tennessee University Thursday

Dr. C. P. McClelland gave an inspiring address at the meeting of the Rev. James Caldwell chapter, D. A. R., held Thursday evening at the chapter house. Dr. McClelland told of the background of the students of the Lincoln Memorial University in Tennessee, who are the descendants of the Americans, bulwark of the colonial cause during the American Revolution and supported the federal government when civil strife threatened the nation.

The meeting was opened by the regent, Mrs. George Drennan, who spoke of the great importance of the 17 approved schools of the D. A. R., and the great work accomplished among the mountain people. She presented Dr. McClelland who described the work of the university and told of the fine traits of character of the students, who through the work system at the university are enabled to obtain an education. It was established 35 years ago by General O. O. Howard and was chartered by the state of Tennessee on Mr. Lincoln's birthday, 1867. It is within a stone's throw of where Tennessee, Kentucky and Virginia converge.

Dr. McClelland interspersed his remarks with numerous anecdotes and descriptions of the people and the mountain country, which were of unusual interest and peculiarly unique to that part of the nation.

The musical program was arranged by Mrs. William Barry Brown and included two solos by Mrs. S. W. Baker and a group of vocal numbers by a trio composed of Mrs. O. O. Webster, Mrs. Lee Husted and Mrs. Baker. Miss Lillian Braden was the accompanist. This was also a very pleasing part of the program.

A social hour was enjoyed in the dining room following the address, with Mrs. M. S. Zachary as hostess. Mrs. Lee Stice and Mrs. Carl E. Black presided at the table, which was attractive with lighted candles and chrysanthemums. Mrs. Ella Hemmrough also assisted Mrs. Zachary.

E. C. Newton to Go On Trial Monday in Pike County Court

Fifty-one Year Old Minister Faces Charge of Slaying Mrs. Dennis Kelly

Pittsfield, Ill., Nov. 11.—(P)—The Rev. C. E. Newton, 51-year old minister, goes on trial in circuit court here next Monday charged with the slaying of Mrs. Dennis E. Kelly, 45, a member of his former congregation.

The body of the Paris, Mo., mother, who was active in Newton's Baptist church during his 13-year pastorate which ended in June 1936, was found in the Mississippi river near Louisiana, Mo., last July 13. Newton, who described the woman—wife of a rural mail carrier—as his "devout friend," was arrested the next day.

On July 15, Merrill Johnston, state's attorney of Pike county, Illinois, announced the minister had admitted he tossed the woman in the river after striking her on the head "with something, I think a hammer," during a quarrel. At his arraignment in August he pleaded innocent.

In the statement, made public by Johnston, Newton said he was helping Mrs. Kelly flee from her home. The statement related that after crossing into Illinois on the Mark Twain bridge at Hannibal, Mo., Mrs. Kelly begged him to continue with her but he refused. The statement went on to say they struggled outside the automobile. The woman fell, he struck her, then drove back on the bridge and threw her into the water.

Johnston, who will handle the prosecution alone, said today he had not decided whether to demand the death penalty.

The minister has been visited many times during his nearly four months of incarceration by his wife and their two sons.

Meets Instant Death In Auto Accident Thursday Afternoon

Woodrow Laughary, 22, of Chapin, was instantly killed about 4:45 o'clock Thursday afternoon, when the automobile in which he was riding turned over three times at the intersection of Route 104 and the Concord Road, just east of Chapin. Loran Ballenger, driver of the car in which Laughary was riding, said that he ran off the road to avoid colliding with a Cleaner. Laughary had been working at the farm of R. S. McKinney, two and one-half miles east of Chapin and Ballenger had gone to the farm to take him to Chapin. Ballenger had as passengers his cousin, Harry Ballenger, and Laughary.

Miss Riley was returning from Concord and Arenzville and entered Route 104 and turned east. Ballenger was enroute west. At a point just east of the intersection the Ballenger car ran off the road on the left side, rode the shoulder for several feet, striking a small concrete culvert which caused it to turn turtle landing on its side. Laughary's lifeless body was hanging out of the window on the upside of the car. His death was apparently instantaneous. The Ballenger car, a Ford coach, was badly wrecked.

Loran Ballenger received some slight bruises. Harry Ballenger appeared dazed shortly after the accident and said that the first he remembered after the crash was when he found himself standing at the side of the road near the wrecked car. He complained of a pain in his left arm, but was apparently not otherwise injured.

On hearing the crash Miss Riley stopped her car and returned to the overturned car. Several motorists stopped and gave assistance. Sheriff Kenneth Woods and Coroner E. O. Sample were notified and were soon at the scene of the accident.

Laughary's body was removed to the Schaeffer Funeral Home at Meredosia, where Coroner Sample will hold an inquest at 9 o'clock this morning.

Woodrow Laughary was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Laughary of Chapin. He attended the Chapin schools and has engaged in farming for several years. He recently took a position on the McKinney farm and was engaged in building fences Thursday.

Besides his parents, Laughary is survived by four sisters, Oleta, Marvina, Dorla May and Melva.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.
